The new sidewalk on Shenvfield street is nearing completion, and is a vast improvement to that section of our town.

Donald McDonald starts from Guelph, Ont today for Bowden to take charge of the butter and cheese making at the White Swan Creamery. Mr McDonald is a graduate of Guelph college and comes well recommended by professor Dean of that college.

The ladies of the Bowden baseball club will give a ball in McCues hall on Friday night June 10th. Proceeds to go to the general expense of the baseball team. Refreshments will be served and special music assured. Gentlemen's tickets $1.

If quality and variety counts for anything you surely ought to be suited in paper and envelopes at Perrins. He has a most beautiful and varied assortment of paper and envelopes in boxes and otherwise, don't forget the place that brick building on the corner opposite the R. R. station.

A meeting was held in McCues hall on Saturday night by the ladies of Bowden for the purpose of organizing a ladies baseball team in Bowden. Mrs W H Stark was voted temporary chairman, the following officers were elected, Mrs P McDermott, chairman; Miss G Whitlock, Sec Treas; Mrs F L Harris, captain.

Acre Yield Competition

The Acre Yield Competition at the Alberta Provincial Exhibition to be held at Calgary June 30th to July 7th is a new idea for an exhibition. The following prizes are offered.

Winter Wheat $100; 50.; 25.; 15.; 10.; 5.

Spring Wheat $100; 50.; 25.; 15.; 10.; 5.

Oats $100; 50.; 25.; 15.; 10.; 5.

Barley $75; 40.; 25.; 15.; 10.; 5.

Flax $60; 35.; 20.; 10.; 5.

The average amount of grain grown on an acre must be shown and will be shown and will be judged 60 per cent for quality 20 per cent for purity, 15 per cent for quality 5 per cent for acreage. The exhibition company pays all freight charges on exhibits originating in Alberta. It is not likely that anyone in the province has seen the quantity of grain grown on an acre in a pile by itself, and the reader will realize what a great interest will be taken in a building where probably 50 to 100 such exhibits will be on view from all over the province. Some districts are taking a particular interest in this feature as in the case of Lloydminster Agricultural society who have already secured six exhibits from their district. The other features of the exhibition promises to be of more than ordinary interest, and the excellent music and attractions, low rates and special trains will undoubtedly make the attendance the largest yet. The entries close on June 18th.

DIED

Hon. Louis C. Harris, at Somerset, Vermont, Tuesday May 31st.

Word was received at Bowden late Tuesday night of the sudden death of Representative L. C. Harris, of Somerset, Vermont, father of Fred L. Harris, editor of the Bowden News and manager of the News Publishing Co. Editor Harris left for the east at once, expecting to arrive there on Monday. Funeral services will be held at Somerset, Vermont, on Tuesday afternoon, during which time the News office will be closed from 1:00 to 6:00 p.m.

An Appeal to the boys of Bowden

A number of the band members having moved away, it is now necessary to fill their places with new members.

A special meeting of the Band will be held next Monday night June 6th at 8 o'clock sharp. All members, directors and any who are interested in the progress of the band are requested to attend. We have at least six instruments needing players and invite the young men and boys who are anxious to learn music, to attend this meeting, become members and help build up the band to a standard of efficiency.

The inhabitants of Japan had been prompt to protect themselves in a legal sense. They had engaged the services of eminent solicitors in London, who were to represent them in the final settlement of the estate. London was to be the battleground in the coming conflict. A committee of three had journeyed to England to put the matter in the hands of these lawyers and were now returning to the island with a representative of the firm, who was coming out to stand guard, so to speak. Von Blitz, the German superintendent, was the master mind in the native contingent. The absent committee was composed of Ben Adl, Abdallah Ben Sabat and Basua, the Ararat lawyer. They were truly wise men from the east—old, shrewd, crafty and begotten of Mohammed.

The mines continued to be operated as usual pending the arrival of the executors' representative, who, as we know, was now on the ground in the person of Thomas Saunders. The fact that he also served as legal adviser to Lady Deppingham was not of sufficient moment to disturb the arrangements on either side.

As for the American heir, Robert Browne, he had not yet arrived. He was coming by steamer from the west, according to report, and was probably in the Bosphorus, Sumatra or Madagascar, due off Ararat in two or three days.

"The Islanders," said Mr. Bowles, lighting a cigarette, "it looks to me, have all the best of the situation. They get the property whether they marry or not, while the original beneficiaries have to marry each other or get off the island at the end of the year. Most of the Islanders have got three or four wives already."

"You mean to say that they can have as many wives as they choose?" demanded Saunders, wrinkling his brow.

"Yes, just so long as they don't choose anybody else."

"My word!"

"Eh?" queried Bowles, arousing himself.

"I didn't say anything," retorted Saunders, looking up into the treetops.

Standing out against the sky fully a mile ahead was the home to which they were going. The chateau, beautiful as a picture, lifted itself like a dream castle above all that was earthly and sordid. It smiled down from its lofty terrace and glistened in the sunset glow like the jewel that had been its godmother.

According to its own records, the chateau, fashioned quite closely after a famous structure in France, was designed and built by La Marche, the ill-fated French architect who was lost at sea in the wreck of the Vendome. Three years and more than $700,000 to make it seem more prodigious, nearly 18,000,000 francs—were consumed in its building.

Apartments fit for a king abounded. Suites which took one back to the luxuries of Marie Antoinette were common. Banquet halls, ballrooms, reception halls, a chapel and even a crypt were to be found if one undertook a voyage of discovery.

Lord and Lady Deppingham, being first in the field, at once proceeded to settle themselves in the choicer rooms—a Henry VI suit, which looked out on the sea and the town as well. It is said that Wyckholme slept there twice, while Skaggs looked in perhaps half a dozen times—when he was lost in the building and trying to find his way back to familiar haunts.

There was not a sign of a servant about the house or grounds. The men whom Bowles had engaged carried the luggage to the rooms which Lady Deppingham selected and then vanished as if into space.

"They say these Americans are a wonderful people, my lord," ventured Mr. Bowles. "I dare say when Mr. and Mrs. Browne arrive they'll have some way of—"

"Browne!" cried her ladyship. "This very evening I shall give orders concerning the rooms they are to occupy. I suppose, however, that the rooms we have taken are the best?"

"The choicest, my lady," said Bowles, bowing.

"See here, Mr.—er—old chap, don't you think you can induce the servants to come back to us? By Jove, I'll make it worth your while."

"What are we to do?" wailed Lady

Agnes, sitting down suddenly upon the edge of a fountain.

"You see, my lady, they take the position that you have no right here," volunteered Bowles. "They've got the ridiculous idea into their noddles that you can't be the heiress unless Lord Deppingham passes away inside of a year, and—"

"I'm—if I do!" roared the per-spring obstacle. "I'm not so obliging as that, let me tell you. If it comes to that, what sort of ass do they think I'd be to come away out here, to pass away? London's good enough for any man to die in."

"You are not going to die, Deppy," said his wife consolingly. "unless you state to death," she supplemented, with an expressive move.

CHAPTER VII.

THE BROWNES ARRIVE.

ONTRARY to all expectations, the Brownes arrived the next morning. The Deppingshams and their miserably frightened servants were scarcely out of bed when Saunders came in with the news that a steamer was standing off the shallow harbor. Bowles had telephoned up that the American claimant was on board.

The deepest gloom pervaded the household when Lady Deppingham discovered that not one of their retinue knew how to make coffee or broil bacon—but that she cared for bacon, but that his lordship always asked for it when they did not have it.

Browne, upset the last peg of endurance by hoping that the Americans were bringing a cook and a housemaid with them.

"The Americans always travel like lords," she concluded, forgetting that she served a lord and not in the least intending to be frontal.

"That will do, Bromley," said her mistress sharply. "If they're like most Americans I've seen they'll have nothing but wet nurses and chauffeurs. I can't eat this vile stuff. Come on, Deppy. Let's go up and watch the approach of the enemy."

Scarcely half an hour passed before the advance guard of the Browne company came into view at the spark gates below. Deppingham recalled the fact that an hour and a half had been consumed in the accomplishment yesterday. He was keeping a sharp lookout for the magic red jacket and the Tommy Atkins lid. Quite secure from observation, he and his wife watched the forerunners with the hand bags, then came the sweating trunk bearers and then crated objects—in what?

Yes, by the Lord Harry, in the very carts that had been their private chariots the day before!

Deppingham's wrath did not really explode until the two were gazing open mouthed upon Robert Browne and his wife and his maid-servants and his ass, for that was the name which his lordship subsequently applied, with no moderation, to the unfortunate gentleman who served as Mr. Browne's attorney. The Americans were being swiftly cozily carried to their new home in litters of oriental comfort and elegance, fanned vigorously from both sides by eager boys. First came the Brownes, eager faced, bright eyed, alert young people, far better looking than their new enemies could consciously admit under the circumstances; then the lawyer from the States; then a pert young lady in a pink shirt, waist and a sailor-hat; then two giggling, utterly un-English maids, and all of them lolling in luxurious ease. The red jacket was conspicuously absent.

It is not to be wondered at that his lordship looked at his wife, gulped in sympathy and then said something memorable.

Almost before they could realize what had happened the newcomers were chattering in the spacious halls below, tramping about the rooms and giving orders in high, though apparently efficacious voices. Close at their heels trooped the servants, all of whom took part in the discussion incident to fresh discoveries. At last they came upon the great balcony, pausing just outside the French windows to exclaim anew in their delight.

"Great!" said the lawyer man after a full minute. "Finest I've ever seen! Isn't it a picture, Browne?"

"Glorious!" said young Mr. Browne, taking a long breath. The Deppingshams, sitting unobserved, saw that he was a tall, good looking fellow. They were unconsciously amused when he suddenly reached out and took his wife's hand in his big fingers. She was very trim and cool looking in her white duck.

"What does Baedeker say about it Bobby?" asked Mrs. Browne. Her voice was very soft and full—the quiet well modulated Boston voice and manner.

The pert girl in the pink waist opened a small portfolio, while the others gathered around her. She read therefrom. The lawyer drew a compass from his pocket and pointed vaguely into what proved to be the southwest.

"We must tell Lady Deppingham not to take the rooms at this end," was the next thing that the listeners heard from Mrs. Browne's lips. Her ladyship turned upon her husband with a triumphant snuff.

"The choicest, my lady," said Bowles, bowing.

"See here, Mr.—er—old chap, don't you think you can induce the servants to come back to us? By Jove, I'll make it worth your while."

"What are we to do?" wailed Lady

Agnes, sitting down suddenly upon the edge of a fountain.

"You see, my lady, they take the position that you have no right here," volunteered Bowles. "They've got the ridiculous idea into their noddles that you can't be the heiress unless Lord Deppingham passes away inside of a year, and—"

"I'm—if I do!" roared the per-spring obstacle. "I'm not so obliging as that, let me tell you. If it comes to that, what sort of ass do they think I'd be to come away out here, to pass away? London's good enough for any man to die in."

"You are not going to die, Deppy," said his wife consolingly. "unless you state to death," she supplemented, with an expressive move.

At that moment the American party caught sight of the pair in the corner. For a brief space of time the two parties stared at each other, very much as the hunter and the hunted look when they come face to face without previous warning. Then a friendly, half abashed smile lighted Browne's face.

"I beg your pardon," said Browne. "This is Lord Deppingham."

"Ya-as," drawled Deppy, with a loo which was meant to convey the impression that he did not know who the deuce he was addressing.

"Permit me to introduce myself, I am Robert Browne."

"Oh," said Deppy, as if that did not convey anything to him. Then, as an afterthought, "Glad to know you, I'm sure." Still he did not rise, nor did he extend his hand. For a moment young Browne waited, a dull red growing in his temples.

"Don't you intend to present me to Lady Deppingham?" he demanded bluntly without taking his eyes from Deppy's face.

"Oh—er—is that neces—"

"Lady Deppingham," interrupted Browne. "I am Robert Browne, the man you are expected to marry. We are here for the same purpose. I suspect. We can't be married to each other. That's out of the question. But we can live together as if we—"

"Good Lord!" roared Deppy, coming to his feet in a towering rage. Browne smiled apologetically and lifted his hand.

"As if we were serving out the prescribed period of courtship set down in the will. Believe me, I am very happily married, as I hope you are. The courtship, you will perceive, is neither here nor there. Our every issue is identical, Lady Deppingham. Doesn't it strike you that we will be very foolish if we stand alone and against each other?"

"My solicitor"—began Lady Deppingham and then stopped. She was smiling in spite of herself.

"Your solicitor and mine can get together and talk it over," said Browne blandly. "We'll leave it to them. I am quite ready to be a friendly ally, not a foe."

"Let me understand you," began Deppingham, cooling off suddenly. "Do you mean to say that you are not going to fight us in this matter?"

"Not at all, your lordship," said Browne coolly. "I am here to fight Tawell Skaggs and John Wyckholme, deceased. I think both of us will run no risk if we smash the will. If we don't smash it the Islanders will cheerfully take the legacy off our hands."

"By Jove!" muttered Deppy, looking at his wife.

"Thank you, Mr. Browne, for being so frank with us," she said coolly. "If you don't mind, I will consult my solicitor." She bowed ever so slightly, indicating that the interview was at an end and, moreover, that it had not been of her choosing.

Dan Patch, 1:55%, has covered more than 70,000 miles since going into the exhibition business. What has been announced as his final appearance in public took place last Thanksgiving day at Los Angeles, where he scored over Mhoor Heir in 2:15%.

Embarrassing.

Mrs. A.—What's the matter with Mrs. DeStyle? She looks the picture of embarrassment.

Mrs. Z.—No wonder. Her little boy used all her old love letters to make the tail of his kite, and they came down in a neighbor's yard.

A Miracle.

"Well," said Dumley self-complacent after his first election speech, "you didn't think I could speak, did you?"

"I confess," replied Knox, "that I can't think of anything so marvelous that has happened for years—not since Balaam's time, in fact." —New York Journal.

MISERABLE WITH DYSPEPSIA

Another Wonderful Cure By That Wonderful Fruit Medicine "Fruit-a-tives."

Mr. Mathias Dery, of 225 Church street, Ottawa, Ont., was treated for years by physicians for Painful Dyspepsia. He spent so much money for doctor's medicines without getting much relief that he had about made up his mind that his case was hopeless.

Seeing "Fruit-a-tives" advertised, however, Mr. Dery thought he would invest 50c in a box of these wonderful fruit juice tablets.

And this famous fruit medicine did for Mr. Dery what all the doctors could not do—it cured him.

He writes:—"Fruit-a-tives" positively cured me of severe Dyspepsia when physicians failed to relieve me."

"Fruit-a-tives" makes the stomach sweet and clean, insures sound digestion and regulates bowels, kidneys and skin.

VETERAN EDUCATIONISTS.

New Brunswick Recognize Work of Drs. Inch and Creed.

It is not often that Governments manifest a serious desire to fittingly reward those who have spent themselves and been spent in educational work; and it is even less frequently that bills are introduced in Canadian Legislatures to provide fitting recognition for those who have labored in the cause of public education. Naturally, then, there has been considerable interest aroused by the recent announcement that the New Brunswick Government had introduced two bills in the Provincial Legislature, one to provide an honorarium of $6,500 for Dr. J. R. Inch, in recognition of his services on behalf of education in the province, and another providing for an adequate superannuation allowance for Dr. H. C. Creed, another veteran provincial educationalist. Both of these gentlemen have for many years been closely identified with the educational system of New Brunswick, being, in fact, considered the founders of the present system. Dr. Inch is a native of New Brunswick, having been born at Petersville, April 29, 1835. Dr. Creed was born at Halifax, N.S., Sept. 23, 1843.

James Robert Inch's father, Nathaniel Inch, and also his wife, were born near Enniskillen, Ireland, and moved to New Brunswick, in 1824. Their son was educated at Gagetown Grammar School and Mount Allison University, where he graduated in Arts in 1867, and received the degree of LL.D. in 1878. The year of his graduation he was appointed principal of the affiliated institution—Mount Allison Ladies College. Here his work as an organizer and teacher resulted in a rapid expansion of the classes and an improvement in the curriculum. In 1878 he was appointed president of the University of Mount Allison and in 1891, by special act of the Legislature, there was added to that position the functions of superintendent of education for the province. The united position he has held up to the present time, the work being so exacting that it has told upon his health. In 1887, in recognition of his educational work, Dr. Inch was appointed a Fellow of Halifax University, and in 1895 he was elected vice-president of the Dominion Educational Association.

Dr. Herbert Clifford Creed is of English parentage, his parents coming from Faversham in Kent. He was educated at the Halifax High School, Dalhousie College and Acadia University, graduating from the last-named institution in 1869. Dr. Creed, like his distinguished colleague, chose educational work as his profession while still a mere youth and he taught French in Horton Academy and Wolfville Ladies' Academy while taking his course at the university. After graduation he engaged for several years in active educational work in Nova Scotia, first as headmaster of the Sydney Academy and later as principal of the Yarmouth Seminary. In 1872 he removed to New Brunswick as English master of the High School at Fredericton, and in 1874 he was appointed professor of mathematics in the Fredericton Norman School with which institution he has been actively connected ever since; many of the most successful school teachers in Canada from New Brunswick to the Yukon being pupils of his, and owing much of their success to his training.

A Famous London Surgeon.
Sir Alfred Downing Fripp, the distinguished London surgeon who is so active in connection with the King's efforts for the extension of hospital work in England, is a cousin of Mr. Alfred E. Fripp, the Conservative M.P.P. for Ottawa East, whose early closing bill was defeated in the Ontario Legislature in the final days of the recently prorogued session. These two cousins are said to have a close resemblance to one another in appearance and in the possession of unusual energy and buoyant good nature. Sir Alfred Fripp is surgeon-in-ordinary to His Majesty the King and is in frequent attendance not only upon His Majesty but upon other members of the royal family. In recognition of his services as chief civilian medical officer of the Imperial Yeomanry hospital in South Africa in 1900, the honor of C.B. was conferred on him. He is surgeon to, and lecturer upon surgery at Guy's Hospital, and surgeon to the King Edward VII. Hospital for Officers. The work which has brought him into such prominent notice lately has been in connection with his appointment as a member of the visiting committee of King Edward's Hospital Fund for London. Sir Alfred Fripp is still a young man, being born at Blandford in Dorset, in 1861. He was educated at the Merchant Tailors' School, London University and Guy's Hospital.

Those Famished Wolves

A man was telling about an exciting experience in Russia. His sleigh was pursued over the frozen wastes by a pack of at least a dozen famished wolves. He arose and shot the foremost one, and the others stopped to devour it. But they soon caught up with him, and he shot another, which was in turn devoured. This was repeated until the last famished wolf was almost upon him with yearning jaws, when—

"Say, partner," broke in one of the listeners, "according to your reckoning that last famished wolf must have had the other 'leven inside of him."

"Well, come to think it over," said the storyteller, "may be he wasn't so darned famished after all."

MINISTER WHO TESTED ZAM-BUK

Read His Deliberate Opinion

Rev. P. F. Laugill, "The Manse" Carp, Ont., writes: "Some considerable time ago I began using Zam-Buk with view to testing it thoroughly. I am troubled with eczema, which is always worse in the early part of winter, and seems to leave me about spring. I tried Zam-Buk immediately my hands started to break out, and am pleased to say that it checked the disease, which is more than I can say of anything I have ever before tried. We have now Zam-Buk in the house continuously, and I carry a small sample box in my pocket. One evening I happened to look in where an old man had met with an accident a week before, and had lost a finger nail. I dressed the wound with Zam-Buk and left the sample box with them. I have seen the old gentleman since, and the injury is cured."

"On another occasion a farmer called at "The Manse" and I noticed a rag on his finger. Enquiring about the injury, I learned that he had somehow taken a piece of flesh off, and the wound had started to fester. He was afraid it would turn to blood-poisoning. I gave him about a third of a box of Zam-Buk and he applied it. A few days after I saw him, and he said, "That's great salve of yours; my finger is now doing fine."

This is exactly the kind of testimony we most appreciate. Test Zam-Buk! Don't go by hearsay! You will find it gives best results in all cases of eczema, ringworm, festering sores, piles, cuts, bruises, face sores, eruptions, and all skin injuries and diseases. All druggists and stores, 50c box, or from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price, but refuse cheap and harmful substitutes and imitations.

HELPLESS LITTLE BABIES

Ask any mother who has used Baby's Own Tablets, and she will tell you they are the best thing in the world for curing stomach and bowel troubles and making teething easy. This is the highest praise a medicine can get. And we give you the guarantee of a government analyst that this medicine is absolutely safe. No other medicine intended for young children give mothers such a guarantee. Mrs. Robt. Mieth, Hotham, Ont., says:—"I cannot tell you how much good Baby's Own Tablets have done my baby. I am sorry I did not know about them earlier." Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Pat to the Rescue

The Honorable Joseph H. Choate, formerly U. S. ambassador to England, tells the following story, crediting the same to a political speech made by Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman:

A head of a house had complained to three friends—an Englishman, an Irishman and a Scot—that his servant broke a great deal of china.

The matter-of-fact Englishman gave this short bit of practical advice: "Dismiss him."

"Take it out of his wages," spoke the thrifty Scot.

Objection to the latter course was made on the ground that the wages were less than the amount of the damages. The Irishman at once came to the rescue with:

"Then raise his wages."

FOR BABY'S TENDER SKIN

Because of its delicate, emollient and antiseptic properties derived from Cuticura Ointment, united with the purest of cleansing ingredients and most refreshing of flower odours, Cuticura Soap is unrivaled for preserving, purifying and beautifying the skin, scalp, hair and hands of infants and children. In the prevention and treatment of torturing, disfiguring eczemas, rashes, itchings and irritations, warm baths with Cuticura Soap and gentle anointings with Cuticura Ointment often succeed when all other methods fail. Guaranteed absolutely pure and may be used from the hour of birth.

A group of Scotch lawyers were met convivially at an Ayrshire inn one cold evening last December. The conversation turned upon pronunciation.

"Now, I," said one of the barristers, "always say neether, while John, here, says nyether. What do you say, Sandy?"

The hot tipple had made Sandy doze, and at the sudden question he aroused and replied: "I? Oh, I say whiskey."

"What do you think of Miss Caliphone's voice?" whispered the tall girl with the mountainous pompadour.

"She sings like a pirate," growled the rude man in the starry vest.

"Like a pirate! Gracious! And what is the resemblance?"

"She's rough on the high C's."

Gentlemen,—In January last, Francis Leclare, one of the men employed by me, working in the lumber woods, had a tree fall on him, crushing him fearfully. He was, when found, placed on a sled and taken home, where grave fears were entertained for his recovery, his hips being badly bruised and his body turned black from his ribs to his feet. We used MINARD'S LINIMENT on him freely to deaden the pain and with the use of three bottles he was completely cured and able to return to his work.

Lakeview

Rev J E Larsen preached from part of the 21st verse of the 19th chapter of Matthews' Gospel "If thou wilt be perfect, go and sell what thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasures in heaven, and come and follow me", he read for the scripture lesson the 103 Psalm and part of the 19th chap. of Matthew's gospel. Etta Bremher presided at the piano.

Mr and Mrs Cary of El Dorado were to church on Sunday.

A friendly game of football was played with the Pine Lake boys on Saturday the 21st the game was a tie.

Mr Atter, the popular merchant at Pine Lake was in Lake View on Saturday the 21st.

Mr and Mrs Parr the G. T. R. R. ways contractor drove through this district on Sunday last.

Rev S Jerdine will take Mr Larsen's place here on the 5th of June.

Mr and Mrs Gordon of Grahamston was visiting at Mr and Mrs James Robertson, Mr and Mrs H Smith and Mr and Mrs Archie Irwin for a few days.

Mr Hutton of Dorris is bringing in very large loads of choice cream. This is a dairy district you know.

The G. T. R. R. contractors are getting along well in this eastern district, it won't be long before we hear the rail road train whistle here, the sooner the better.

J M Hay, of the Grand View farm has a choice field of fall wheat. It is looking alright.

Andrew Hanson sold a choice horse to Mr Keast of Innisfail at a very good figure.

Silence reigned supreme in the "Deserted Village" Lake View on May 24th. Save for the dull thud of the creamery churn. All the Lake Viewites hied to the El Dorado picnic and left George to pursue the even tenor of his "Milky way." What a collection of buggies, democrats and rigs left in the morning carrying the elite of the town, and how all did enjoy the sports. We'll boast for El Dorado everytime.

Service in the schoolhouse at Huxley on Sunday next June 5th at 11 a.m. Preacher Rev J R Craig. All are invited.

Divine service will be conducted in the construction camps south of Huxley every Sunday evening at 7.30 p.m.

VICTORIA DAY CELEBRATION

Grand Picnic

The 24th of May was right royally celebrated on Alex Hogg's homestead last Tuesday. Quite 200 people turned out and to put it mildly everyone thoroughly enjoyed themselves even the preachers. The railroad engineers worked like trojans to make everything tip top and no eulogy is too high for the manner in which Mr and Mrs Hogg exerted themselves on behalf of the great crowd. The games were of the old time order. "Caledonian Sports" and both the participants and the boasters proved themselves "Sports" of the first water. The beauty and chivalry of our neighborhood filiated hither and thither and all went merry as a marriage bell. But, hark! whisper it softly through the bluff, our distinguished engineers could not withstand the invulnerable onslaughts of "The Lake View Sons of Rest" in the football tussle and retired, conquered but not subdued, 5 goals against their card, could this be otherwise after Saturday's encounter with Pine Lake. ever "The Sons of the Compass" by 14 runs to 7 showed their superiority at baseball over the "Sons of Rest." Work counts every time. The cravings of the inner man were attended to right royally by the ladies, and many baskets of fragments were gathered. The younger ladies kicked football, ran races, played skipping ropes etc. to their hearts content and altogether the outing was unanimously voted a complete success and all to soon "Chore time" came and so homeward the picnickers plodded their ways weary, worn, and glad.

WIMBORNE

A grand picnic was held near E Curr's and everybody had a very enjoyable time.

A R Wales left for Innisfail Tuesday morning with a beef cow.

Charlie Nichol has started a beef route in the Wimborne district.

Bert York went to Innisfail this week.

Fay Lewis of May City is still working for Mr York.

John and Amos Gilgan and Willard Wales attended the Merton church Sunday.

Miss Ethel Wilson who has been attending the winter session of school at Innisfail visited friends here last week.

Wm Fisher, proprietor of Mayton store and creamery has been sporting Wimborne district with his new automobility.

R N Gilgan will soon be leaving this district to work in Bowden.

F N Lawrence of Calgary spent Sunday with his folks here, he went back via Innisfail Monday.

M Holdsworth made a business trip to Innisfail this week.

Mr Dickens went to town on Monday.

I W Lawrence of Curlew visited his cousin Mrs Holdsworth Sunday.

Nesbit News

Mr and Mrs P Sheldrick gave a most enjoyable dance in Betchton school last Friday evening.

Chas Ball lost his valuable saddle pony last week.

Some of our young people are having a picnic on June the 25th near the Elphick farm.

Andrew Anderson is now fencing his farm.

Jas Hawkins is now working on the road which passes Mr Ball's farm.

Miss Marshall recently purchased a fine saddle pony from Jas Hawkins.

Mr West, our Methodist minister intends leaving this district soon, we are all sorry to see him go.

Would it not be a good scheme to get a row boat or two and put on the lake for rent. Let us make Bowden as lively as possible this summer.

INNISFAIL NOTES

Dr George of Red Deer was a caller in Innisfail on Monday.

Tom Stringen was home this week from B. C. on a visit to his parents.

It is reported that Mr Buchanan has had a good offer for his hotel at Trochu.

Miss Olive Bradley of Calgary is visiting Mrs C Gray this week.

J Fumberton arrived home from Manitoba last Saturday accompanied by his family.

W R Wilson and W Wynn were in Calgary last week attending the Masonic Grand Lodge.

Mr and Mrs G W West left on the Saturday night train for the east. They propose being away about six weeks.

Lt Col. Cruickshanks was up from Calgary on Monday inspecting the Cadet corps of the Innisfail school, he reports the boys doing nicely

A big baseball game was played in Innisfail Wednesday evening between the longs and the shorts which was very interesting and resulted in a tie.

Chas Baker arrived from Calgary on Tuesday night with his new automobile. It is a 36 h. p. McLaughlin Quick car, the first low car owned in the city.

The new proprietor of the Mt Royal hotel gave a sumptuous dinner last Sunday, we understand that this is to be a regular Sunday affair. Quite a large number of the townspeople availed themselves of the opportunity.

Some of the ladies who took part in the ladies baseball game on the 24th are still lame as a result—does this not prove that exercise is really necessary to the majority of ladies, who, confined to the house all day, with nothing to entice them to exercise, become inert and listless.

W Nickells, agent at this point certainly deserves the prize when it comes to artistic park work. Mere words cannot do it justice. The space between the water tank and depot has been planted to small spruce, a small mound at one side looks like a mountain, roads have been cut into the sod, the letters C. P. R. have been cut out of the sod, also the word "Innisfail" in beautiful flowers in the centre of the park. If possible we hope to get a photo of this park for the News.

BOWDEN.

C Ralph spent Sunday at Bowden.

We are glad to see A McLean out again.

Call and see the latest magazines at the News office.

Jessie Shenfield went to Red Deer on Monday.

Miss Bryenton left on Monday's train for Red Deer.

The editor spent the first of the week at Edmonton on business.

Mr and Mrs W Lewis spent last week in Calgary visiting friends.

W Sterling of Calgary spent Sunday at the home of Jas Hayward.

Ernest and Albert West spent Monday in town visiting their parents. Albert left on Tuesday's train for Virdimil where he has accepted a position in a store.

Another dispute of right-of-way was waged to the bitter end on Saturday evening, between a cow and a cow catcher, when the southbound train ran down a cow belonging to H Dehl.

Quite a number of the people of Bowden spent Sunday or at least part of Sunday at the lake west of town, and not a few were impressed with the possibilities of a swimming tank. Every one should learn to swim, why not learn this summer?

Great pluck, and presence of mind was shown by a little girl of Summit School district last week, when the eight year old daughter of E Farmer narrowly escaped being seriously hurt, if not killed. While little Doris was petting a two year old heifer in the calf shed the animal suddenly turned on her pinning her to the wall, the child made not the slightest outcry, but gripping the animal by both horns and throwing her weight on its head, she managed to twist herself around till reaching a low place in the wall, she climbed over and made good her escape.
